

Jessica S. Johnson

---

Jessica Johnson recently joined the firm focusing as an associate and focuses her practice in the areas of business litigation, public agency and natural resources practices.

Background

Ms. Johnson graduated from McGeorge School of Law with great distinction, earning entry into the Order of the Coif. She has won numerous awards at school for her legal writing.

She graduated with an environmental concentration and has a broad range of internship experience in water and environmental law, including a summer at the California Attorney General's Office in their Land Use, Environmental, and Natural Resources Section in Sacramento. She has also clerked for Associate Justice Ronald B. Robie at California's Third District Court of Appeal. Water and the environment in the Central Valley remains her primary interest.

Prior to attending law school, Ms. Johnson was a paralegal in Fresno for eight years, with extensive experience in real estate and estate planning. Ms. Johnson is excited about returning to her hometown to work in the public agency, water, real estate, and environmental practices at Baker Manock & Jensen.
